Famous "Charlie Chan" Of Films Dead

ACTOR DIES IN SWEDEN

SANTA BARBARA, Cal., Aug. 6.—(UP)—Warner Oland, portly movie actor who won fame in portrayal of "Charlie Chan" roles, is dead in Sweden, according to a cablegram received here today.

WARNER OLAND

Oland's death, according to information received by Mrs. Oland, resulted from bronchial pneumonia which affected his heart. Mrs. Oland, who separated from the actor last fall after a property settlement between them, was preparing to rush to Stockholm to be near him—when she received word that Oland was dead.

Called For Wife
Ryon said that Mrs. Oland planned to fly east soon and board the Queen Mary in New York. Oland had been calling for his wife and Mrs. Oland determined to make the trip when physicians at the bedside called that Oland had but a short time to live.

Ryon said that the meeting of the estranged couple, had it taken place before Oland died, would not have meant reconciliation as far as Mrs. Oland was concerned.

Suffered Breakdown
Oland had been recuperating in Europe after a nervous breakdown which halted his screen work in spectacular fashion last fall. He left the set at 20th Century Fox "to get a drink of water."

The company was left stranded when Oland never came back. After a few days of indecision, Fox officials announced that Peter Lorre, another famous character actor, would finish the picture.

Oland appeared in several towns around Los Angeles during his "disappearance." The most sensational episode of this period came when Oland was found in Yuma, Ariz., with his chauffeur and an expensive car. He removed his shoes and pursued members of a crowd which gathered around him in the Arizona town.

Blamed Liquor
Late last August, Mrs. Edith S. Oland, his widow, went into the Santa Barbara courts and charged that Oland so "disregarded his duties as a husband that he caused her much mental anguish."

Oland declared that excess drinking on the part of her husband was

Candidate Won't Admit Defeat

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Aug. 6.—Although beaten decisively in Thursday's primary, Sen. George L. Berry, millionaire labor leader, and Gov. Gordon Browning, head of a statewide political organization, today had not conceded defeat.

They were opposed by a slate endorsed by E. H. Crump, Democratic boss of Memphis and Shelby county, whose high geared machine scored an overwhelming victory.

Berry, running under the Browning banner, trailed Tom Stewart, the Crump candidate for the Democratic Senatorial nomination, by more than 75,000 votes.

Browning, opposed by Prentice Cooper, Crump candidate for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, was behind by approximately 74,000 votes.

Socialite Wins Divorce Decree
SAN JOSE, Calif., Aug. 6.—(UP)—Mrs. Adele Stadler, daughter of a prominent St. Louis, Mo., manufacturer, had an interlocutory decree of divorce today from Dr. Erman Stadler, San Jose physician.

The decree, awarded by Judge R. R. Dyer, gave Mrs. Stadler custody of two minor children and $50 a month alimony. A property settlement also was effected.

Mrs. Stadler charged her husband was morose and unsocial with her friends, and called her names. The physician denied the accusations in an answer filed by his attorney.

The Stadlers were married in 1926 and separated July 1.

FDR Tested In Kentucky

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Aug. 6.—(UP)—Kentucky Democrats select their nominee for the United States Senate in primary voting today and provide a clear-cut test of the popularity of President Roosevelt and the New Deal.

Opposing Senate Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley for re-nomination was Gov. A. B. (Happy) Chandler. The issue had been unmistakably drawn in a campaign exceptionally bitter in this state where political campaigns always are bitter—President Roosevelt had made three campaign speeches for Barkley and the last word of the Barkley forces to the voters was a plea not to humiliate Mr. Roosevelt by defeating the man who became the Democratic leader of the Senate through his intervention.

Various straw votes and other samplings of public opinion indicated a Barkley victory and Ken-

MOTHER TESTIFIES AT MURDER TRIAL

SOUTH PARIS, Me., Aug. 6.—(UP)—Paul (Buddy) Dwyer's mother testified as a state witness today at the murder trial of former Deputy Sheriff Francis M. Carroll, who is accused of the crime for which her son is serving a life sentence.

A world war nurse, Mrs. Jessie L. Dwyer seemed complacent as she entered the witness box where her 19 year old son had spent 12 hours during the past three days.

Mrs. Dwyer was the sixth of 30 witnesses scheduled to testify for the prosecution.

Mayor Testifies
Proceeding her on the stand was Mayor Alexander Allen of North Arlington, N. J., where Dwyer was arrested last Oct. 16 at the wheel of an automobile whose tonneau and trunk contained the bodies of Dr. and Mrs. James G. Littlefield, elderly South Paris couple.

Mayor Allen testified that he was at police headquarters at 10:30 a. m. on Oct. 16 when it was brought to his knowledge that Dwyer had made a confession which was being typed and which the youth had agreed to sign.

Then, the mayor said, he overheard Police Chief George Shippee tell Dwyer that the Maine officers were going to fly to New Jersey and take him back by plane.

Expressed Fear
"Dwyer wanted to know who was coming," the mayor testified, "and Chief Shippee said, 'I don't know. Why?' And Dwyer said, 'I hope it isn't Francis Carroll. He will throw me out of the plane.'"

It was learned from defense counsel today that the new boy friend of the defendant's 17 year old daughter, comely Barbara Carroll, had been summoned as a defense witness. The name of the youth, who supplanted Dwyer in Barbara's affections, was not disclosed.

Seeks Return Of Stock Holdings

MEDIA, Pa., Aug. 6.—(UP)—Mrs. Emma C. Bergdoll, mother of Grover C. Bergdoll, world war draft dodger, today filed suit for the return of 11,000 shares of stock allegedly held by her son's wife, Berta.

Papers were served on Bergdoll's wife for a hearing Sept. 19 as she prepared to return to her husband in Germany.

Bergdoll, now 44, has made numerous pleas to be allowed to return to this country, but the government regards him as a "fugitive from justice."

He married Berta Frank after they met in Germany. They have four children, one born two years ago when Mrs. Bergdoll came to this country to make a personal appeal for her husband to President Roosevelt.

Celtic Hero Gets Real Welcome

With the broadest smile this side of Cork County, Douglas G. Corrigan says he is glad to be back in New York. The photograph taken of him aboard the Manhattan shows him in the same leather jacket that he wore when he flew eastward from New York and landed in one hop at Dublin, Ireland.

Corrigan Weary, Bruised After Boisterous New York Welcome

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—(UP)—Douglas Corrigan, a weary and battered hero, spurned a doze of fortunes today and decided to remain just another young man in search of a flying job.

Offers were accumulating by the hour for him to exhibit himself on a stage or talk over the radio at prices of $12,000 to $20,000. He was offered a $100,000 contract to become a movie actor for ever larger sums; to write stories of his life and endorse products he doesn't use.

Wants Flying Job
But Corrigan shook his head, demanded with a trace of Irish anger to know who used his picture in a beer advertisement without permission, and said he'd just wait until somebody offered him a steady job. It will have to be a flying job, he said, and if it wasn't forthcoming soon (he had only $15 when he landed his $900 airplane in Dublin after an ocean flight July 18) he would pick out a few products to endorse for profit.

Pair Killed In Daring Murder

CHICAGO, Aug. 6.—(UP)—Two men were shot and killed today by a gunman who stood alongside their automobile in broad daylight, emptied his gun, then fled.

The victims were identified by police as Bruno Switz, 35, and Leo Muszinski, 32. Muszinski was believed to have been a former state policeman. They were in the automobile, parked at the curb in front of the home of Alderman Joseph Rostenkowski, when the killer drove up in another machine.

A woman who witnessed the slaying told police the gunman was accompanied by "one or two" other men. She said he stepped out of his automobile, and raked the victims' automobile with bullets.

Dollar Day Big Success

More than 10,000 persons from Santa Ana and all parts of Orange county today had taken advantage of The Register's automobile parking guest cards as they joined other thousands who thronged downtown Santa Ana to take advantage of one of the city's greatest Dollar Day events.

On the streets and in all sections of the city cars bearing the guest stickers were seen as shoppers joyously descended on the money-saving bargains being offered by local merchants.

Prices Slashed
Store windows and interiors were everywhere announcing price-slashing sales events as merchants attempted to cope with the flood of thrifty housewives who opened wide the family purse and poured thousands of dollars into the coffers.

Members of the Santa Ana city police were stationed at busy intersections to keep the influx of

CLERKS TAKE OVER $75,000 FOOD MART

EL CERRITO, Calif., Aug. 6.—(UP)—Eight clerks were doing business today as operators of their former employer's grocery, in which the stock and fixtures were valued at $75,000.

Discharged when Andrew Williams, the owner, closed the business in a dispute with the Retail Clerks union, the group struck a quick bargain with him.

Accept Proposition
Unable to find other positions, they asked Williams if he could make them some proposition to take over the business, with only a small cash outlay involved. He agreed and did and his former employees now run the firm.

The store, on a highway, caters particularly to Sunday and holiday trade. Williams said he couldn't make a profit under the union regulation requiring stores to close at 7 p. m. every night and all day Sundays and holidays.

Turn Employers
The group thought otherwise and turned employers. Each leased a department in the working of which he was most familiar. The present arrangement may be cancelled at 45 days notice should Williams decide to take the store back.

The store is run by the group under full union rules, the 9-hour day, 5-day week, union wages and closes nights, Sundays and all holidays.

Kidnap Suspect Killed In Fight

LEBANON, Pa., Aug. 6.—(UP)—Earl Young of Lebanon, Pa., who was shot and killed in a pistol fight with police at Hot Springs, Ark., yesterday, was wanted on a kidnapping charge and for questioning in connection with a murder, local authorities said today.

Only three days ago, they said, federal agents listed Young as a "public enemy."

He had been wanted for the kidnapping of a Kansas State College coed and her escort and as a suspect in the kidnap murder of Betty Schmitt, 17-year-old Sioux Falls, S. D., high school girl.

On July 19 a warrant was issued in Louisville, Ky., for Young on a charge of violating the Lindbergh kidnap law. He was identified from photographs as the man who abducted Miss Nettie Coston, 22, and left her tied to a tree near French Lick, Ind. Her escort, John Schachtel, 26, was tied to a tree near Louisville.

Efforts to reach an agreement on wage payments to Mexican field workers by Japanese growers went fruitless this afternoon as the fifth meeting of workers and growers concluded at Gonzales hall, here.

And while Lucas Lucio, workers' representative, announced that "900 field workers went on strike today," George Graham, secretary of the Associated Farmers of Orange county, Anaheim, and representing the growers, countered with the statement that "the growers do not need any more workers than they now have in the field."

The workers ask a 30-cent wage "or a wage set by the arbitration board," Lucio stated, while Graham pointed out that, according to profit and cost figures, the growers are but "breaking even or less than breaking even" with the tomato harvest although the wage is 25 cents per hour.

Graham also outlined a profits and costs setup for the tomato crop, and said: "With tomatoes selling at $9 or $10 per ton at the cannery, the growers take a loss of from $2 to $3 per ton sometimes."

RIGGS WINS TOURNEY
SOUTHAMPTON, N. Y., Aug. 6.—(UP)—Young Bobby Riggs of Chicago, America's second ranking tennis star, won the Meadowbrook annual invitation tournament today, defeating Sidney B. Wood, Jr., of New York, 6-0, 6-3, 7-5.

"Neffair Return"

When Simone Simon, French movie star, left Los Angeles for New York she was all smiles, as this picture shows. But boarding the Normandie there for France she ran into trouble with autograph hunters and income tax agents and left very, very mad. "I think I neffair come back here," pouted Simone.

PIONEER TEACHER CALLED BY DEATH

Arthur B. Gardner, 63, vice principal of Santa Ana high school and resident of this city for the past 35 years, died at his home, 1602 North Broadway, at 12:45 p. m. today after an illness of seven weeks.

Widely known in the teaching profession, Mr. Gardner was a teacher when he came to Santa Ana but for a time, stepped from the role of professor to become manager of the Pendleton Lumber company. Later, he joined the high school staff where he was active as an instructor in history and economics up to the time of his last illness. A heart ailment caused death.

Plan Rites

McGowan of Santa Ana; a sister, Mrs. Charlotte Shaul, Los Angeles; grandchild, Mary M. McGowan, Santa Ana, and mother-in-law, Mrs. Anna M. Pendleton, Santa Ana. Funeral arrangements will be announced later by the Brown and Wagner Colonial funeral chapel attendants.

JAPAN SEEKS SETTLEMENT

TOKYO, Aug. 6.—(UP)—Continued border fighting, including Soviet airplane raids and tank and artillery attacks, were reported tonight as Tokyo strove for negotiations to settle the Siberian-Manchukuan-Korean frontier dispute.

Publication of the diplomatic conversations between Japan and Russia in Moscow had no effect on the hostilities. Sporadic fighting continued, including occasional raids by Soviet light bombers in the Changkufeng, Kogo and other disputed border areas, including incursions into Korea proper.

Claim Victory
The Japanese claimed to have repulsed all attacks but did not try to advance. Four Soviet tanks were reported damaged in attacks at two points on the frontier.

Japanese action on border negotiations will be discussed by leading cabinet ministers at a meeting on Tuesday. Meanwhile, the foreign and war offices kept the throne constantly advised of developments.

Squabble Local
The most hopeful sign was considered here to be the local nature of the present squabble, which has not been extended in the past week.

It was understood that the Soviets had forcibly closed the Japanese consulate at Khabarovsk and Blagoveshensk.

REPORT RUSSIA IN DEFIANT MOOD

SHANGHAI, Aug. 6.—(UP)—A broadcast from Khabarovsk quoted a communique of the Soviet Far Eastern army tonight as saying:

"We must always be mobilized against those attempting to start war flames. . . ."

"The Japanese indicate they want war with the Soviets. . . . The Soviets are ready to deal a death blow."

INTENSIVE SOVIET AIR RAIDS REPORTED

LONDON, Aug. 6.—(UP)—Soviet air raids on an extensive scale on Korea, which is Japanese territory, were reported tonight by the exchange telegraph agency.

The dispatch quoted a Japanese war office communique as saying that in Russian infantry, artillery and airplane attacks on Japanese positions in Korean villages, 40 planes bombed Changkufeng and Shatsaoping and that one plane was shot down.

CHINESE OFFICIALS SEE FALL OF HANKOW

SHANGHAI, Aug. 6.—(UP)—Chinese military authorities indicated today that they were reconciled to the eventual loss of Hankow, the provisional capital, and without pause after its fall.

Military observers predicted that there would be major operations soon in the Yangtze river valley, centered at Nanchang, 55 miles south of the river, where the Chinese are massing many thousands of troops.

Chinese Confident
It was forecast that, basing on Nanchang, the Chinese intended to defend all positions in the territory. The Chinese themselves seemed confident that they had sufficient men to stop the Japanese there.

As for Hankow itself, Chinese indicated that the basic plan for defense as now worked out was to defend the entire Hankow area stoutly but without engaging in a mass battle.

In this way, it was understood, the Chinese hoped that by defending all strong positions in retreating action, they could inflict the maximum of losses on the Japanese while suffering a minimum of casualties. Also, they hoped to force the Japanese to use as great a quantity of munitions as possible, realizing the drain of modern war on a country's treasury.

The feeling seemed to be that the area south of the river would be the chief battle ground and that the Japanese would find the Chinese in mountain positions, dominating wide areas, which could be defended at little cost.

For the present the Japanese were trying to clear a path up the river by bombarding the banks from their small warships, bombing cities with airplanes, and sending troops both north and south from the river to occupy strong bases ready for a drive westward.

Pioneer Actress Buried In Paris

PARIS, Aug. 6.—(UP)—Pearl White, old-time movie star of "The Perils of Pauline" and other thrillers, was buried today in the Passy cemetery.

There was no church ceremony. A simple service was read at the graveside in the presence of only about 20 close friends, in accordance with Miss White's wishes.

She died in the American hospital on Thursday after an operation for a liver infection.

ESCAPE ARTIST DENIES GUILT

Trial of Warren Marr on a charge of escaping from an officer was set yesterday for August 15, the same date designated for his trial on four counts of grand theft and five of violating the corporate securities act. The same jury will head all of the 10 charges, which will be tried in Judge G. K. Scovel's court.

Marr, accompanied into court yesterday by his attorney, Z. B. West, pleaded not guilty to the entire lot of charges brought by Assistant District Attorney Preston Turner.

Escaped in 1936 Marr was awaiting trial once before on the original nine counts when he escaped from a deputy sheriff, who had conducted him to Pasadena by permission of the court to allow Marr to transact some business.

That was October 21, 1936. The grand theft and corporate securities charges were based upon stock deals in 1934 and 1935, and Marr had been extradited from Michigan to face them.

Another Felony Charge After his escape in Pasadena he was sought in a widespread hunt by Sheriff Logan Jackson's office, which finally located him in Indiana. Marr had fallen afoul of the law there and was serving a term in prison.

He was paroled last month to the custody of Orange county authorities, who brought him back to Santa Ana with another felony charge added to the original nine.

YOUTHS IN THEFT RING GET PROBATION

Six Wintersburg youths, members of a gang of eight young burglars who confessed sundry crimes throughout Orange county, yesterday were placed on probation for four years by Superior Judge James L. Allen, who also sentenced each defendant to four months in county jail.

One of the conditions of probation was that the youths reimburse their ranchers who suffered from their depredations. The pail sentence was deferred until after the youths had worked in harvest fields and earned money to apply on such reimbursement.

They were formally charged with burglary of a pump house owned by Marvin Stroud, of Midway City. Two of the youths were of such tender years that they were sent to juvenile court. The six taken into adult criminal court were Ralph and Manuel Ortiz, Robert Ingersoll, Frank Contreras, Claude Sievert and Leo Kanawyer.

Two Gain Mercy In County Court

Pleading guilty to a contributing charge, connected with his association with a 20-year-old girl July 2, Arliss E. Parker, automobile factory worker, yesterday was placed on probation for two years by Superior Judge James L. Allen, who suspended a jail sentence of two years on condition that terms of probation are not violated.

Joe Morales, who passed a fictitious check for $24.85 to the G. M. C. Truck company July 11, was granted probation for five years by Judge Allen. Under terms of probation, Morales cannot again drive a car until the check and others he admitted writing have been paid.

Driver Applies For Probation

Benito Cabrero, of El Modena, whose car struck and injured Everett Tuck, Orange boy who was riding his bicycle at Chapman avenue and Water street, Orange, July 24, pleaded guilty to felony drunk driving when arraigned yesterday before Superior Judge James L. Allen.

Cabrero then applied for probation, hearing being set for August 19.

RETURNED TO CELL

Tommy Rice, 26, Santa Monica, upon his release from county jail in Los Angeles yesterday, was returned to county jail here by Deputy Sheriff C. F. McKelvey and held for prosecution on grand theft charge.

TRANSIENT IS HELD

Jack C. Murry, 59, Redding, a transient, was jailed here yesterday afternoon by Police Chief John Stanton of Tustin on a vagrancy charge.

Loop The Loop Ties Marital Knot

Because (so the story goes) they first met and plunged headlong into love on this same roller-coaster, David Goldberg and Hilda Schneider conceived the dizzy but thrilling idea of getting married on the zoomer at an amusement park across the Hudson from New York City. With the regulation ushers and bridesmaids in attendance, with the Reverend Cyrus A. Starkey of Plainfield, N. J., performing the ceremony and with three movie cameramen whirling away, the happy lovers are shown at the top of a hill about to take the drop (whee-ee-ee!) into matrimony.

LAMB'S CREW GIVES FIRST AID AFTER FAST RUN TO COVE BEACH

Lawrence Kirsch, 22, of 849 Woodbury, Altadena, was given first aid by Dana Lamb, head of Sheriff Logan Jackson's beach patrol last evening after one of the fastest runs in recent days.

Kirsch, who swam too far out according to a call for help submitted by Bob Foster, store worker at Crystal Cove, and was becoming exhausted at 6:21 p. m. when Foster called the sheriff's office.

At 6:22, a radio broadcast was made from the county police radio station, KGHX, and intercepted by Lamb and his men, who were holding a test drill for eight members of the Laguna Beach rescue squad on the beach at El Morro bay. All of their equipment was unpacked for the drill.

Assembling Equipment Gathering the equipment quickly, the group jumped into automobiles and sped to Crystal Cove, a mile away, arriving on the beach with equipment ready at 6:25 p. m. As they arrived, a mammoth breaker tossed Kirsch completely over the top of the reef rocks, landing him on the beach. He was frightened and exhausted, according to Lamb.

First aid was given and Kirsch sent home. Kirsch had swam approximately 200 or 300 yards before becoming exhausted.

Lamb said the Laguna Beach rescue squad volunteers will be given their final test drill on Monday at an hour and place which will not be revealed to them until the call is sounded.

Scant Margin Of Safety

Carl Siemend, former Viennese waiter, was successfully making a parachute leap from a plane at only 300 feet—the lowest altitude for a 'chute jump ever attempted in England—when this picture was taken above Luton airport. He is seen a moment after leaving the plane, which soars away. Siemend used a new type, 16-pound parachute designed to open after a drop of only 30 feet.

ROW OF NEIGHBORS OVER HOME TO BE AIRED NEXT THURSDAY

Hearing of the injunction suit filed by Chief Deputy County Auditor Leslie H. Eckel, of North Freeman street, Santa Ana, against his neighbor, H. C. Wahlberg, Santa Ana insurance man, to prevent Wahlberg from building his new house within six feet of Eckel's property line, yesterday was set for hearing next Thursday before Superior Judge G. K. Scovel.

Meanwhile a temporary injunction is in effect, holding up Wahlberg's construction activities until after the hearing. The foundation frames for the house already had been laid within three feet of the property line, according to Eckel, when the injunction was asked.

Eckel's suit is based upon asserted deed reservations covering lots in their location on North Freeman street, requiring that houses be set back six feet from the property side lines.

HUSBAND MUST PAY

Pleading guilty to a charge of failure to support his family, Nicolas Rodriguez, employee of a Los Angeles truck line, was ordered to pay $40 per month for support of the family and placed on two years' probation. A one-year county jail term was suspended by Justice Kenneth Morrison, who passed judgment. Rodriguez may not leave the state during the probation period and must quit use of intoxicants.

S. A. Model Home Open for Display Tomorrow

Above is shown one of the newest model homes in the city that will be opened for public inspection from 10 a. m. to 5 p. m. tomorrow by Realtor Carl Mock, right. The house is located at 1416 West Eighth street and will be open by appointment after tomorrow.

Unusual construction in the model home makes it possible to have a four bed-room house if the size of the family requires it and if the family is small it is easily converted into a play room. It is an example of "dry-wall" construction. No wet materials such as plaster or stucco are used for wall materials. The ceilings are all of Celotex—and insulating and acoustical material. The second floor ceiling is further insulated against heat and cold by a four-inch layer of Johns Manville Rock Wool. Hardware and light fixtures in the house are of solid brass. It is heated by a modern, above-floor furnace with forced air circulation and a fire place equipped with a "Heatlator" heat distributor.

QUESTIONS Before the House

By Wilbur Barr

A Building Boom

There is a growing opinion in the building industry that we may expect the beginning of a building boom this fall. Factors supporting this opinion seem to be that preceding the past there has been a period similar to the one we have been passing through since last autumn.

Mainly that the volume of building rose rapidly following the main depression, then slumped shortly. We have passed through that sharp slump and have experienced a gradual rise since the first of the year.

Favorable To Builder
At present prices of real estate, materials, and labor are very favorable to the home builder; considerably below the levels of the 1926 period, which is generally considered as an average year in terms of recent booms and slumps.

Only big national organizations had the courage or the capital to take advantage of the bottom prices of 1931-32.

Today the family enjoying a reasonable income cannot make a better investment for their future happiness and profit than building a new home or extensively modernize their present home.

A study of the movements of meteors has revealed that terrific storms raze at a height of 60 miles in the earth's atmosphere.

PLEA FOR BETTER DESIGN IN SMALL HOUSES COUTAINS AXIOM

Editor's Note: Herewith is the first of two installments of an article that offers excellent advice on the manner in which to approach the construction of a home in which you or someone else may wish to enjoy for a long time.

BY IRENE McFAUL
Architect

Almost everything in human use today, from automobiles to eggbeaters has more well directed thought and study expended upon it than our living quarters. And what to do about it?

There is an axiom which every prospective builder of a house should paste in his hat. It follows: Take plenty of time, and consider the problem as a whole. In other words, walk, don't run into the nearest building project, and don't design your house around the refrigerator, or the spice cabinet.

Vague Resemblance
When Mr. and Mrs. Citizen go forth to purchase a new roof tree something like the following may happen. Armed with a batch of vague notions, they rush frantically over the landscape collecting garages, talk to everyone from the garbage man up, and neither sleep nor eat until the ground is broken. They concern themselves about having all the latest features. After they have haggled, and fumed and wept, they finally achieve a conglomerate of trick gadgets and mismatched details which vaguely resemble the picture they had in mind.

Suppose instead of going in for this hectic nightmare, you forget that you want to be in the house for the wedding anniversary, and take your time. After all, you have the rest of your life to live in it. Take time to consider the problem as a whole.

Consider Whole Scheme
A design is a well thought out scheme for the whole project, including consideration of location, budget, orientation, garden, workability of plan, proportion of rooms one to another, appearance of the house from all angles, and eventually consideration of details and materials.

For example, a house may be lovely to look at but be located in a poor neighborhood, or be too expensive for the income of the occupants. It may have a beautiful bath room and no access to the garden. It may look like the original dream house, when viewed directly from the front, but resemble a barn at side and rear. Unfortunately a house is seldom seen from only one side, but always in perspective. It may have all the clever conveniences known to mankind, with an arrangement of rooms and kitchen that is death to womankind. It may be perfect in every other respect and have planting that spoils the picture or shuts out light. An effective garden should be a frame and a supplement to the house, and should be thought of before the house is built.

Don't Wait For Rain To Fix Roof

Don't wait for a rainy day to see that your home is protected by a tight roof. It is the advice of roofing experts, with the winter rains in the offing. Too many home-owners they declare, do not realize the deficiency of their roofs until the surfaces are put to the test of severe storms.

Mineral-surfaced asphalt shingles may be applied over the old roof, with no necessity for ripping off the former material, eliminating the usual mess both inside and outside the home.

GREAT PROGRESS IN BUILDING OF BUSINESS STRUCTURES SEEN AS ZONING LAWS ARE REVISED

BY RAY GOODCELL

President of The Santa Ana Realty Board

It's never polite to say, "We told you so," but it is quite all right to give credit where credit is due, and certainly the Santa Ana Realty Board deserves credit for recommending the change in the zoning ordinance that has caused, in the past six months, more new construction in business buildings than Santa Ana has seen in years.

Everyone should become familiar with this change. Owners of lots on main streets zoned to "neighborhood business" soon to be known as Zone C, I. of the commercial district may now build of frame and stucco construction. Prior to this change the ordinance called for masonry construction. If you don't appreciate the difference now, you will when you call for bids.

Prepare For Expansion

The higher cost retards the erection of new structures, not because owners didn't want the best but because the cost was prohibitive, and the rentals were not commensurate with profitable returns on the investment. Furthermore, most such structures are for temporary purposes, they do not cover the entire lot, they must be salvaged for what they will bring and removed to make way for progress when bigger business encroaches. It therefore does not pay to build them to expensively. Not being in the higher congested area, fire proof construction is not vital.

With the ordinance as changed, there is an inducement for owners of vacant properties who have paid taxes and received no revenues, to build for and supply a demand that has been prevalent for a long time.

A look about the commercial district adjacent to downtown is convincing that there are no vacancies; a word with your realtor will assure you that there are numerous potential tenants.

Variety of Businesses
We look upon the new structures with satisfaction. Already erected, and many occupied, are markets, hotting works, mail order dispensaries, plumbing shops, electrical appliance shops, garages, service stations, etc., all supplying work and profits for the building trade.

When the work of the craftsman is done the newly completed project is furnished and stocked by men and women of courage, confidence, and faith. The ball starts rolling, work is applied for more help, the population swells, after service is given, property values rise, and we are on our way to that goal set by the Chamber of Commerce '50 (66 population by 1940).

Improvements Wise
Attention might again be called to the fact that properties under C, I. zoning are considered first class risks, conservative investments earning a fair revenue and having the benefit of future higher values. Present owners will be wise to improve at their first opportunity. Buildings on your vacant lots immediately increase value. Prospective investors will be smart to purchase, wisely of

Demonstration Home Inspected

With the summer season at Balboa in full swing many interested visitors are inspecting the new demonstration home at 2033 Ocean Boulevard on Balboa Peninsula.

This new home, designed by Harold J. Bissner, architect, has been built to demonstrate the maximum room accommodation in plan and the attractive, colorful interior design which may be obtained at a remarkable moderate cost for a modern beach home. It is attracting favorable comment from visitors according to Davis-Baker Co., managing agent.

A series of plans for other houses, designed by an architect, showing attractive, small, modern beach homes which may be built upon Balboa Peninsula with a down payment as low as $500 and low monthly payments designated as "Budget Plan Beach Homes" are on display at the demonstration home, according to the developers.

BUILDING EXPERTS CONFER

Donald Beach Kirby and G. W. Bassett, president and secretary of the Orange County Builders' Exchange today met with members of the executive board of the California State Builders' Exchange in Los Angeles to discuss problems of vital interest to the community.

The meeting was called by H. L. Sweeney, of Santa Barbara, president of the state organization, who announced that the topic of a "bid depository" system in Orange county and other counties would be discussed.

Predict Fair Year for Hotels

WASHINGTON (UP) — Hotel business the last part of this year will be above normal but not as good as last year, according to reports compiled by the American Automobile association.

"Fewer than 20 per cent of the hotels replying to our questionnaire," the AAA said, "have experienced any increase in the volume of tourist business so far this year. With but few exceptions, they expect a decrease in business below last year's record volume."

"However, because touring was at such high levels last year and spending so lavish, a slight decline will not bring hotel patronage below a normal year. The hotel situation can be summed up; business will be good, but not as good as last year."

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Aug. 6.—(UP)—Doctors said Richard Klink, 2, was none the worse today for his fall from a second-story apartment house window.

After a thorough examination, doctors said the baby apparently suffered no serious injuries.

TOASTMASTERS OPEN CONCLAVE

With large delegations from Santa Ana and Orange county in attendance, the Toastmasters International gathered in Tucson today for their seventh annual convention, exhorting each other to cultivate the art of eloquence.

Six states—California, Arizona, Utah, Wyoming, Texas and Illinois—sent delegates to tangle in speech contests.

“We take the men who can't make a public address without shaking and teach him to speak while shaking,” William Dunlap, Los Angeles, president, said.

Finalists for the International extemporaneous speaking contest were William Robert, Huntington Park, Calif.; Forrest Richardson, Aberdeen, Wash.; A. T. Daddens, Phoenix, Ariz.; Henry Wiens, Redfield, Calif.; Richmond Jackson, Pacific Beach, Calif.; and Charles Berry, Minneapolis, Minn.

Delegates from San Jose, Calif., proffered prizes and strolled the streets with banners, attempting to secure the 1939 meeting of Toastmasters International.

“They'll probably succeed too,” Hervey Smith, chairman in charge, said. “No other city seems to want the annual meeting.”

Police Kill Florida Fugitive

DEARBORN, Mich., Aug. 6.—(UP)—Police today shot and killed a fugitive from a Florida chain gang who had killed a guard in escaping at Floral City, Fla., two weeks ago.

The dead man was Arthur Sherman, 27, of Los Angeles, Calif.

Bruce Parrish, 22, who escaped from the gang with Sherman, was captured.

Sherman was shot by officers as he attempted to flee when the car in which he was riding with Parrish and two Dearborn men was stopped for investigation by a police scout car.

Detective Lieut. Reuben A. Orr said one of the men, William Zahari, 24, said he had been discharged from the chain gang in Feb. 1937. The driver of the car, George Bergia, said he knew Zahari but had never before seen Sherman or Parrish.

Miss Gerritt, who instituted her suit last year, charged that she was improperly classified as a teacher in junior college, where there is no permanent rating because Fullerton J. ## FEATURED SCREEN ATTRACTIONS AT SANTA ANA THEATERS

WALKER OFFERS FINE PROGRAMS

Filmed entirely in technicolor. "The Adventures of Robin Hood," starring the dashing Errol Flynn, is coming to Walker's screen tomorrow with an exceptionally fine program. "Love, Honor and Behave," starring Wayne Morris and Priscilla Lane in an hilarious comedy, is second billing with the usual short subjects added.

The beloved legend of Robin Hood concerns the gallant deeds of a Saxon noble who turns outlaw with a band of followers and plunders the rich Normans to feed and protect the oppressed, has long been a favorite with moviegoers of all ages.

The delightful picture also casts Olivia de Havilland as Maid Marian, Claude Rains, Basil Rathbone, Ian Hunter as King Richard the Lion-Hearted, Eugene Pallette as Friar Tuck, and Alan Hale as lovable little John.

"Love, Honor and Behave," based on the Saturday Evening Post story, "Everybody Was Very Nice," deals with a pair of childhood sweethearts who grow up in the atmosphere of divorce, yet marry. That's where the trouble begins. A high-light of the film is a knock-down, drag-out fistic encounter between the newlyweds but it ends the "stormy weather." Dick Foran, John Littel, Thomas Mitchell, Dickie Moore, Barbara O'Neil and Mona Barrie are in the fine cast.

"Dead End" Kids, Comic Screen Soon

Described by critics as the most natural young actors on stage or screen, the famous "Dead End" kids give full play to their unique talents in the new picture, "Little Tough Guy," an astonishing document of reckless youth, which starts next Thursday at the Broadway theatre with Helen Parrish, Robert Wilcox, Jackie Searl and Marjorie Main also featured.

The story is a simple, powerful narrative about what happens to one family when tragedy strikes. It begins when the father is sent to jail on a murder charge, and follows the mother, son and daughter after they move to cheap, sordid quarters.

Billy Halop, who sells newspapers to help support his broken family, is filled with bitterness over what he feels has been an unfair treatment of his father. Joining a young gang of street hoodlums he begins a series of escapades which build up a breath-taking climax.

A modern Svengali, whose hypnotic powers make a sensational bareback rider a timid young man who is afraid of horses, motivates much of the hilarious action of "I'm From the City," Joe Penner's newest comedy vehicle, second attraction.

WARNER BAXTER, MARXES TO SHARE HONORS AT WALKER'S

"Kidnaped," the story which Robert Louis Stevenson is said to have considered his best, comes to Walker's Thursday, Friday and Saturday with a cast of 5,000 including Warner Baxter, Freddie Bartholomew and Arlene Whelan and many other screen notables.

In "Kidnaped," Freddie plays the prominent role of David Balfour, young Scotch laird whose claim to an Edinburgh castle is fought by an unscrupulous uncle. David falls in with the handsome renegade, Alan Breck, Baxter, who is wanted by the British as a rebel leader.

Jimmie Fidler In Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, August 6.—Idol Chatter: Judging by the tragic endings of M-G-M's recent offerings, someone in that studio must consider death the supreme entertainment. When screwier screen costumes are worn, Loretta Young will introduce them. One word description of Hedy LaMar: Heady. Only seven passenger touting cars in the film colony belong to C. B. DeMille—they use it as an official car when notables come visiting. Alice Faye's nickname for Gregory Ratoff is "Comic Accent No. One."

Best off-screen laugh of the week: The Marx Brothers' ambition to play "Brothers Karamazov." Wonder if one of our biggest stars knows that his stand-in is trying to substitute for him off-stage as well as on? No star more suave and indifferent, outwardly, and more sentimental and thoughtful, inwardly, than Ronald Colman. News to me: that the "Mordant Gallich" who has been winning selen prizes with his candid camera work is really Humphrey Bogart.

The arrival of a Viennese star named Rosy Roth will give you a rough idea of why Hollywood re-names some of its charmers. Cited for the Croix de Merite: Priscilla Lane—who is having two wisdom teeth extracted during her vacation instead of suffering on the studio's time. If Marie Wilson calls you "Lovey" she really likes you—and if she really likes you she is a cinch to call you "Lovey."

Bette Davis, president of the Tailwaggers Association, is our most noted dog-lover, but today on the set where she is starring in "The Sisters," she could cheerfully have slain her own Doberman, Blitz, Bette occupies her time between takes by knitting sweaters and is inordinately proud of her craftsmanship. Called before the camera this morning, she left a particularly fine bit of work lying on her chair and Blitz, presumably bored with movie-making, amused himself by unraveling it. The lightning of Bette's wrath struck him exactly where it would do the most good and he fled yelping. Bette, instantly contrite, tried to make-up—but when I left, her pet was still refusing her anxious overtures.

Speaking of pets, does anyone want a pedigreed alley cat? If so, you might get in touch with Humphrey Bogart. The other day a vagrant "Mehtibel" decided to bring her current crop of kittens in to the world under the Bogart mansion. Humphrey listened to the Smiling Errol Flynn, above, heads a powerful cast in the fine, legendary film, "The Adventures of Robin Hood," which double-bills on a fine program at Walker's tomorrow, with "Love, Honor and Behave," featuring another fine cast including Wayne Morris and Priscilla Lane.

Texas Is To Be Scene Of New Picture

A heroic story of the South's struggle for freedom during the dark days after the Civil War and the birth of the United States as a coast-to-coast empire is told in "The Texans," which will open an engagement at the West Coast theatre next Wednesday. An all-star cast is offered, headed by such favorites as Randolph Scott, Joan Bennett, May Robson and Walter Brennan.

Defeated in war and weakened by four years of back-breaking sacrifice, the South, in the plot, is prevented from getting back on its feet by a gang of the most miserable men ever to appear on the American scene—the carpet-baggers—Northern adventurers who descended on the South after peace, to make fortunes for themselves, at the expense of the impoverished natives. Hated by the Southerners and all decent Northerners, their life-and-death struggle with the Texans make a screen story that will not be forgotten quickly.

Solving a murder mystery by the ancient science of astrology is the novel theme of "When Were You Born?" the new melodrama, with Anna May Wong, Margaret Lindsay and Anthony Avers in leading roles, second feature. The picture is most unusual, for interwoven with the quota of murder mystery thrills, is an explanation of astrology and of the working methods of a bona fide astrologer.

Jack Holt, above, appears in a scene from "Flight Into Nowhere," thrilling South American aviation and jungle adventure film, coming to the State tomorrow. "Tip-Off Girls," featuring Lloyd Nolan, Mary Carlisle, story of a G-man's fight to stop truck hijackers, is second feature.

BOOK FINE FILMS FOR EARLY RUNS

Three newly released motion pictures have been booked to show at the Broadway theater in the near future, it was announced today.

One of these is "Alexander's Ragtime Band," Darryl F. Zanuck's production of Irving Berlin's great saga of three decades in the march of America. The colorful musical production features a great cast headed by Tyrone Power, Don Ameche, Alice Faye, Ethel Merman, Jack Haley, Jean Hersholt, Helen Westley, John Carradine, Paul Hurst and others.

Another is "Mother Carey's Chickens," said to be veritable mirror of the sweet fireside story that for two decades has thrilled American readers. The film version of the Kate Douglas Wiggin novel presents Anne Shirley, Ruby Keeler and James Ellison in the leading roles.

The third is "Sky Giant," a romance of modern aviation dealing with an ambitious plan to map a projected air route to Europe by way of Alaska and Siberia. Richard Dix is starred, with Joan Fontaine and Chester Morris featured.

Modern machine guns for planes are very little different in their design from those guns used during the World War. The number of shots has been speeded up from 650 to 1000 rounds per minute.

HOLT STARS AT STATE SUNDAY

Jack Holt, ever-dependable hero of screen adventure tales, crashes through with another twofisted, fighting narrative in "Flight Into Nowhere," coming to the State tomorrow. The picture screens here for the first time.

"Tip-Off Girls," expose of one of the nation's most powerful rackets, highway truck hijacking, with Lloyd Nolan and Mary Carlisle featured, and "Mysterious Pilot," thrilling aviation serial, also screen.

"Flight From Nowhere," is a tensely dramatic tale set in South American jungles, and offers its star a splendid opportunity as the fighting chief of a transcontinental air line. The story in brief tells of a head-strong aviator who flies to South America against orders, is lost in the jungles and captured by head-hunters. Exciting adventure follows as Holt enters the jungles with an expedition to hunt the lost man. Jacqueline Wells, Dick Purcell, Fritz Leiber and Howard Hickman are in the cast.

"Tip-Off Girls" is the story of the tactics employed by hijackers in their efforts to retain power and the methods utilized by an aroused federal government to stamp them out. Nolan has the part of the G-man who sets a trap for the gangsters and their tip-off girls, those who tell the gangsters when and where to stop and rob a truck driver of his cargo. Larry Crabbe, J. Carroll Neish and Evelyn Brent are in support.

'Call Of Yukon' At State Friday

"Call of the Yukon," which opens a two-day run at the State Friday, promises to be one of the outstanding adventure films of the past few months. Based on one of James Oliver Curwood's most popular stories, "Swift Lightning," the picture stars Richard Arlen, with Beverly Roberts and Lyle Talbot.

The plot deals with the stirring adventures of a beautiful girl who, through her stubbornness, becomes stranded in the wastelands of snow and ice in northern Alaska and is forced to turn to a cold-blooded, half-civilized trapper for protection. Complications arise when a north-woods trader tries to take her back to civilization. Several animal actors, dogs, bears and ravens included, are in the cast.

"Pure Feud," Charlie McCarthy-Edgar Bergen comedy; "Window Shopping," color cartoon; "Tim Tyler's Luck," serial, and world news also screen.

You May See It Today At—

LLOYD'S LATEST COMEDY IS SCREENING AT WEST COAST

Moviegoers with a yen for travel desert. Adventure piles upon adventure from that point on, and the comedy gathers momentum as Lloyd comedy, "Professor Beware," now showing at the West Coast theatre along with "I'll Give a Million," a comedy-romance co-starring Warner Baxter and Marjorie Weaver.

In "Professor Beware," Lloyd has the part of a dandy-and-out archaeologist who loses his job and must get to New York for another one. In the early part of the story, he meets Phyllis Welch, his leading lady, and by intervening himself in her behalf with the affairs of an inebriated talent scout, Williams Prawl, loses his pants—and his job.

He stows away on a honeymoon trailer but is left stranded on the

Melodrama Is Feature Wednesday

A double threesome of top ranking comedians and popular players of the younger generation will be seen in featured roles of "Reckless Living," fast-moving comedy drama, which shows on the double bill at Walker's for one day only, Wednesday.

Heading the funsters are Jimmy Savo, world-famous pantomimist; Charles Judels, veteran merryhacker of the New York stage, and Frank Jenks. In the romantic leads are Robert Wilcox, Nan Grey and William Lundigan, in a three-corner love story laid against a background of race tracks, night clubs and the hi-de-ho-spots of modern youth.

"Nurse From Brooklyn," second offering, brings to the screen an unusual love story of a hard-boiled cop who woos his girl by reciting poetry to her. Sally Eilers, Paul Kelly, Larry Blake, have leading roles in a cleverly plotted story climaxed with the capture of a killer through efforts of a nurse and the cop she thinks she could hate but doesn't.

CRIME FILMS WILL CO-BILL AT STATE

A crime story has been set to music of some of the world's greatest composers in Paramount's tradition-smashing romantic drama, "Stolen Heaven," coming to the State Wednesday for a two-day run. Action and excitement abound in the second offering, "Law of the Underworld," featuring Chester Morris, Anne Shirley and Eduardo Clannell.

"Stolen Heaven," co-starring the French find, Olympe Bradna, and Gene Raymond, tells the gay story of the flight of two young jewel thieves from the police of half of Europe and plays it against a background of the best-liked pieces of such master-composers as Liszt, Mosgolski, Chopin and Strauss.

"Law of the Underworld" deals with gangster activities in a large city where Morris, a modern Jekyll and Hyde, leads a double life as society man and head of the local crime ring. When his friend, Walter Abel, is appointed special prosecutor, things begin to happen fast and furiously. "Foot Sweet," Fifi Dorey and Rufe Davis featured, is a music comedy short, also showing.

The full title of King George of England is George VI, by the Grace of God, of Great Britain, Ireland, and the British Dominions beyond the Seas; King, Defender of the Faith, Emperor of India.

ED ROBINSON STARS TODAY

Edward G. Robinson has the greatest role of his career in "The Amazing Dr. Clitterhouse." That will be the verdict of theatergoers who will be thrilled, fascinated and highly amused at the opening today of this extraordinary, bizarre motion picture at the Broadway theater.

Robinson artistically depicts a complex character—a Park avenue doctor who spends his days in the practice of medicine, his nights in the practice of crime.

He is, on the surface, a highly respected neurological surgeon who becomes so obsessed with a study of the reactions of criminals at the time when they are committing their crimes that he determines to engage in criminal activities himself in order to observe. He soon rises to the leadership of a band of robbers formerly led by Humphrey Bogart, then commits murder.

The murder leads to his unmasking and arrest. Although his lawyer has presented a plea of insanity, Clitterhouse staunchly declares himself sane. This convinces the jury of his insanity, and he is acquitted in a court scene that is unrivaled in cinematic hilarity. Claire Trevor, Gale Page, Allen Jenkins, Henry O'Neill, John Littel, and Maxie Rosenbloom have leading roles.

"Army Girl," a powerful drama dealing with attempts to mechanizing an old cavalry post, and featuring a cast headed by Madge Evans, Preston Foster, Jimmy Gleason, and H. B. Warner, is the second attraction. A Pete Smith sport short, "Follow the Arrow," and World News, completes the program.

Ripeness of Parmesan cheese is tested by tapping it with a hammer and listening to its tone. Italian warehouse experts determine from the tone of the cheese whether it is ready for market or not.

Charming New Daughter Is Introduced At Formal Tea

Presenting Mrs. Weston Finley Sprague, charming young Christmas-season bride of her son, to a host of family friends, Mrs. E. B. Sprague yesterday tendered a courtesy to her daughter-in-law that was impossible at the time of the mid-winter wedding, because of the early departure of the young couple for the east.

It will be recalled that the mid-winter wedding of Miss Marjorie Linway and Weston Sprague was just in advance of Mr. Sprague's departure for Boston to attend Harvard School of Business Administration. Their recent return has made it possible for friends to pay them many post-nuptial courtesies, introduced by yesterday's delightful function.

At Home Hours
Friends were received throughout the afternoon in the Sprague home, 1520 Victoria Drive, where the gracious charm of the home was magnified by the cordiality of a group of assisting hostesses, and the quantities of flowers used to accent the stateliness of the setting.

Receiving at the door was Miss Virginia Finley, young cousin of the home, girlishly lovely in her crisp taffeta frock. Mrs. Arthur Lyon and Mrs. Charles Drutt stood at the foot of the colonial stairway, to direct guests to the receiving line within the big living room. Mrs. Sprague introduced her daughter-in-law, and the latter's mother, Mrs. A. J. Lasby, completed the formal group.

All three were beautifully gowned. Mrs. Sprague chose periwinkle blue chiffon, and wore a cluster of delicate pink tuberos begonias pinned to the smart lace jacket that completed her costume. Mrs. Weston Sprague was very lovely in powder blue crepe girdled with gold. Her flaxen hair was dressed high on her head, with a deep rose begonia tucked among the curls. Mrs. Lasby chose deep blue marquisette over taffeta, accented with white embroidery and a long spray of gardenias.

Assisting hostesses were quite as handsomely gowned in lace, flowered chiffon or crepe, and included in the living room, Mrs. Joseph H. Metzger, Mrs. W. Harold Finley and Mrs. C. F. Skirvin. The flower background of this room showed the wide range of yellows, developed in pompon and display dahlias and zinnias.

For Tea Hour
In the dining room were Miss Bernice McBride, sister of the hostess; Mrs. Donald Swarthout (Gallene Finley) and Mrs. Leland Finley, cousins of the senior Mrs. McBride were hostesses, the flower appointments expressed different colors. Rose and mulberry hues were seen in the zinnias and dahlias massed on the buffet, while centering the long table with its Italian linens and lace, was a crystal bowl in which the blue of delphinium vied with Talisman roses' flame and the clear golden yellow of scabiosa amidst plumes of snowy stock.

Presiding at the silver coffee and tea urns and serving ice cream rounds, were close friends who took different hours of the afternoon. They included Miss Lulu B. Finley in flowered chiffon; Miss Lavenia Scott with a red velvet jacket accenting her bouffant white chiffon frock; Mrs. Alexander Brownridge whose lace gown was in antique mahogany shades; Mrs. W. B. Williams wearing black net over flowered taffeta, and Mrs. Terry Stephenson in flowered chiffon. Mrs. John Tessmann, who has been one of this group, was unable to be present because of taking a much needed rest at Laguna Beach from her teaching duties.

While the gardens of the Sprague home have provided flowers for many of the summer's smartest functions, they were scarcely needed in planning the decorative effect for yesterday's party within the home itself. For Mrs. Sprague's friends returned some of her many courtesies by showering blossoms upon her for her own entertaining. The Terry Stephenson garden produced quantities of the exquisite pompon dahlias. A particularly effective cluster of the great golden display dahlias came from Mrs. Arthur Lyon. Mrs. Emmett Raitt proved the skill of her husband, Dr. Raitt, as a dahlia grower, with the assorted blossoms she sent. Mrs. Tessmann's presence was felt in the beautiful asters and dahlias with which she expressed regret at being absent herself. Mrs. F. E. Coulter sent the gardenias which added to the exotic fragrance of the flower garlanded home.

Coming Tea
Another event complimenting Mrs. Weston Sprague, is coming within the week. For Mrs. Theodore A. Winbiger has cards out for a garden tea to be held next Thursday afternoon at her home, 207 East Ninth street. Another bride will share guest honors with Mrs. Sprague, Mrs. Lockwood Miller, of Los Angeles, the former Miss June Arnold of this city.

HOME FROM VERMONT
After an enjoyable trip through Vermont, Mrs. Elmi Valach (Mary Emma Whitney) returned Thursday to Santa Ana, where she is with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Secord, 715 Minter street. Mrs. Valach left here in May.

Wait A Minute

Those posies now blooming so cheerfully in your gardens, should be watched carefully and nursed along for an even more perfect blooming a little later in the season. For the Annual Orange County Flower show is just around the corner, all same prosperity. And if you don't believe it (the flower show we mean—NOT prosperity) ask Marion (Mrs. Fred) Alden, county garden chairman, or Clara (Mrs. J. E.) Paul, who originated the county-wide event a few years ago. . . . D'ya know what we'd like to see in the exhibit? A Men's Competitive event. Don't think there wouldn't be entrants, and it would be fun to see all these Kiwanis dahlia growers gazing critically at each other's display of show blossoms, and wondering how it would be possible to snitch a bit of seed—a la George (Mortician) Smith and Emmett (Doc) Raitt.

John (Ins.) Gallagher and his Bride Ariel, who have been visiting here this week from Eugene, Ore., live directly across the street from those other Santa Ana Eugenites, the Tex Olivers—Tex you know, is U. of Ore. coach. . . . Bettie (Jaysee) Timmons and Gloria (Ditto) Kirschner are going to have some snarky sweaters when Marie (Mrs. Howard) Timmons clicks those knitting needles of hers awhile longer. . . . Rosemary (Placencia) Kraemer who enters U.S.C. this fall, probably will major in geology and things like that, since she has collected rocks ever since she was a tiny child. . . . Her Maw Edna (Mrs. S. P. Jr.) Kraemer goes in for botany, in proof of which we offer you that famous home garden, scene of some of the county's gayest social affairs and which is of her own landscaping design.

(IMPERTINENT FACTS: Mary and E. W. Linotyper) Ellis are just home from a honeymoon trip (their fourth) to Sequoia. . . . Ask Carleton (Bank Teller) Smith how he likes locking himself in the bathroom when he is hurrying to dress to join Blonde Frau Miriam on a party engagement. . . . Ask Beryl (Mrs. Clyde) Higgins about that same bathroom lock too. . . . Charles (Headley Salesman) McCausland has a nice smile, even tho we recall with some discomfort the time when it was at us instead of with us. . . . We waxed lyrical over some of his Frau Sara's rubies tinted raspberry jelly which instead was currant—or vice versa. . . . Dorothy (Mrs. Dixon) Tubbs has a flashing smile and about the prettiest hair ever—naturally curly. . . . Henrietta (Schoolmarm) Foster has sworn off wearing open-toed shoes over Our Village with her rasy toes poking through her hose as well as her sandals. . . . Daniel (Student) Cullen is that good looking Broadway theater usher with the sparkling eyes and curly dark hair. . . . Curtis (Architect) Bowman and Barbara (Steno) Ward make a congenial-looking pair as they hurry up Main street together. . . . Irene (Cavalier Steno) Ross seems to enjoy her ice cream cone even though she is eating it in the presence of you 'n' me. . . .

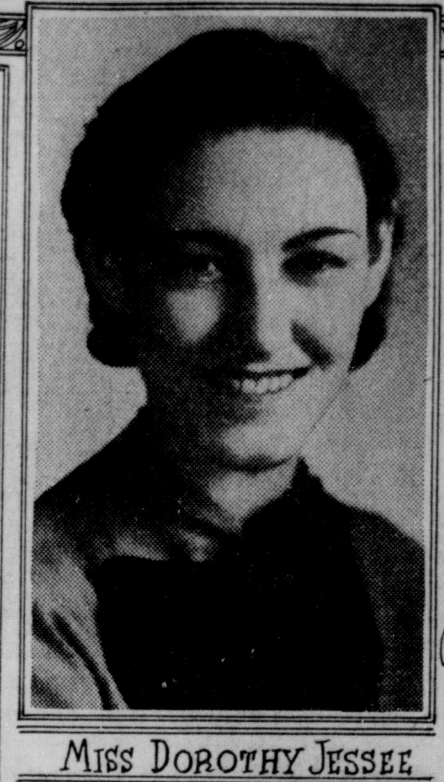

Is Bessie and Patrick (Rancher) Martin—or what Martin is it that has that completely fascinating big Spanish home that just before you enter the Mission Village of San Juan Capistrano? . . . Speaking of homes, we think one that reflects most perfectly the gracious serenity of its mistress, is that of Zella (Ebebe prey) and W. S. (Rancher) Thomson. . . . Oddest experience of the week—strolling down Fourth street and hearing police calls broadcast from the parked motorcycle of the Bawtubt Boys—it seems that Charles (Ossifer) Neer and Daniel (Ditto) Jones were lunching well within earshot of the car, Ossifer Dan, by the way, accompanied by his Pretty Blonde Frau Elsie. . . . Nanette (Hunts) and Edward (Salesman) Richards strolling along with their black and white dog pulling at the leash. . . . Ella June (Liliana Beach) LaPierre and Lilian (Ditto) Pritchett chatting together over a cool salad at our favorite eatery. . . . Ella June by the way, tells us that Dotter Charlotte Elliott is seriously considering going to China with some friends. . . . Harry (Banker) Hanson is among those who like to stop in at Roy S. (Optician) Horton's office at noon time for a chat—perhaps a cool smoke. . . . Tom (Student) Cole leaves in a week's time for Berkeley, there to attend law school. . . .

John M. (North Van Ness) Stratton and Tillie (Mrs. Walter) Davis have been Mister and Missus since last spring. . . . Helen (Bride-Elect) Parsley, who has just arrived in Santa Anna from Arkansas will become Missus Glenn (City Employee) Gordon tonight. . . . Happy Birthday, even if a bit late, to C. D. (Pastor) Hicks, one of the most genial ministers we know. . . . Jewel and Bill (Groceries) Jenkins still enthusiastic about their trip a few weeks ago, when they went by train to Royal Gorge, Colorado Springs, etc. . . . Jewel, by the way, has a new coiffure which is most becoming. . . . Those newsweds, Mary and Norman (Excelsior Creamery) Wyckoff have moved again. . . . Hope Bonnie (Student, Teacher) Kiser is having fun at Tuolumne in the Sunny Southland. . . .

Veteran Rebekahs Have Picnic Dinner

Adding to the pleasure of Veteran Rebekahs picnic dinner yesterday noon were the vernal charms of Birch park, where 43 members and guests assembled for an informal affair arranged by Mrs. Nannie Myers.

Since Mrs. Myers has a birthday this month, members chose this occasion to shower her with cards. Mrs. Leona Talbot provided a pretty birthday cake with accompanying flowers. Also honored was the president, Mrs. Bessie Waite who was given a pottery salt and pepper set as a gift of Veteran Rebekahs.

Among the guests present were husbands of some of the members. They were accorded places of honor at the tables where covered-dish dinner was served at noon. Ice cream and cake formed the dessert course.

Announcement was made that installation of officers will take place at the next meeting, Sept. 1.

Four-Four Club Has Meeting in Orange

Choosing Four-Four club as the name by which the group will be known from now on, members of a card-playing eightsome met yesterday afternoon in the Orange home of Mrs. R. M. Hargrove.

The hostess used marigolds and lavender flowers in decorating for the event, which began with the serving of a salad course. In addition to playing cards during the day, members spent some time exchanging recipes and menus.

Present was a guest, Mrs. Hess, substituting for Mrs. S. M. Kilgore, who is vacationing in the north; and Mrs. W. C. Bond of Costa Mesa, with Santa Anans including E. W. Vardy, Homer Larkin, J. R. White, T. F. Bernier, Ernest Dunn and the hostess.

Marchant-Sears Rites Occur in Baptist Parsonage

It was a quiet ceremony at which Miss Aletha Ruth Sears, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Seals of Irvine, and Samuel Lincoln Marchant of Tustin exchanged wedding vows last night in the home of the Rev. and Mrs. Harry Evan Owings, 1018 Spurgeon street.

The Rev. Mr. Owings, pastor of First Baptist church, read the 7 o'clock rites, for which Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Cannon of Tustin served as attendants.

Miss Sears was attired in a smart frock in a new shade of blue, with white accessories and a bridal white corsage bouquet. Following the nuptials, the new Mr. and Mrs. Marchant and an intimate group motored to Los Angeles for wedding dinner. The newly-wedded couple left this morning for the mountains, where they will spend their honeymoon. They will reside in Tustin, where the bridegroom is employed at Tustin union high school. Both he and his bride are graduates of that school.

Mr. Marchant, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Marchant, has been making his home with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Marchant of Tustin.

Wedding Rites To Take Place In Grove Home

Garlanded with flowers in which bridal white predominated, the Magnolia avenue home of the E. A. Wakehams in Garden Grove, was to be scene at 4 o'clock this afternoon, of the marriage of a daughter of the home, Miss Ernestine Wakeham, to William J. McDaniel of San Francisco.

Miss Wakeham chose to maintain a quiet simplicity in all details of the wedding, to which half a hundred relatives and close family friends have been invited. When given in marriage by her father, she will wear an afternoon frock in deep blue with which all dress accessories will harmonize. Mr. McDaniel selected a spray of orchids for his bride to wear.

Miss Marjorie Wakeham as her sister's honor maid, likewise has chosen navy blue for her smart afternoon frock, which will be accented with gardenias. Nell McDaniel, of Walla Walla, Wash., came south for his brother's wedding, and will serve as best man at the rites to be read by the Rev. F. P. Rossett. The Rev. Mr. Rossett is a retired Congregational minister, and will express years of close family friendship in his reading of the marriage service.

During the reception to follow the services, Miss Eleanor Wisner and Mrs. Kenneth Crawford will pour tea and coffee at a table beautifully appointed in white flowers and tapers. The bride will cut the first slice of an elaborately decorated five-tiered wedding cake.

Travel Plans
The young couple will defer a honeymoon trip until October when they will drive to Washington from the home to be established in San Francisco, and visit Mr. McDaniel's parents, the Kyle McDaniels of Walla Walla. In the meantime they will continue their San Francisco interests, where Mr. McDaniel is with the Matson Navigation company. His bride, a popular student at Santa Ana Junior college, has been in the Bay City for some time past, as a member of the staff of the Infants' Shelter.

Since returning south a few days ago to complete preparations for this afternoon's wedding, she has been feted at several delightful affairs, including the party given for her Thursday night by Miss Eleanor Wisner and Miss Marjorie Wakeham. Receiving guests in the Wisner home, the hostesses included a desert course, bridge play and a tulle shower in their friendly plans. Bridge prizes continued the personal note of the party, and were won by Mrs. Lee Hasenjaeger and Miss Norma Kenny.

THE RIGHT WORD

If only we were wise enough to say the right word at just the right time. There are times in children's lives when the right word is enough to turn the tide of thought and energy toward the right thing for that particular child. If that time passes without the word it is lost, and we must hope for other tides and other words. The whole thing is shrouded in the mysteries of the human spirit and we can only feel our way. But wanting to be there on time, does help to get us there occasionally, even though we do not know it.

We were not especially pleased when a social visitor brought in a boy with a school record that looked like nothing but a laundry ticket, that had been badly blotted with red ink. Why one should mark a child's misfortunes in red so the world must stop and look—but that is not the point here. The point is this boy with neither father nor mother, or family relative, to look after him, was piling up offenses against the law and being added to our already heavy number of helpless children.

"Well try," we said. "Is there anything he likes to do?" "Not that anybody has noticed."

"What would you like to be when you grow up?" we asked the scrawny, leggy, speckled lad who was leaning against the table looking as if there was nothing anywhere in his world worth wanting to be.

"An actor," said he with alarming promptness. "Good enough. We'll let you start in the dramatic class." The next we heard of him was a complaint from the garden teacher. "That new boy thinks the iris bed is a landing for the high jump. He jumps the fence and lands in the iris. I hollered at him to get out of there and he thumbed his nose at me." Of course, he would.

By and by I saw him practicing his jump, just as the teacher had described, and sauntered out. I was mad enough to want to seize him by the seat of the pants and toss him into the swimming pool, but I waited until I could see him again as the helpless child, without father or mother or friends, lonely and afraid, wanting to be the hero on the stage, bowing to the applause of the audience. When I felt he was that boy again and I went over and said, "Son, those flowers have as much right to live as you have." He looked at me, said nothing, and walked away. I forgot all about it until long afterward, when he was the actor he wanted to be, he came in to see me and told me about it. "I expected you to kick me out right there and then," he said. "When you just said, 'Those flowers have as much right to live as you have,' I was shocked somehow. Something inside me began to cry. I never gave anybody in school a bit of trouble from that time until now."

going on inside of him. I only know that kicking him out wouldn't do what was needed to be done, and did what I could do just hoping. Maybe just feeling for the right word helps us sometimes.

DRIVE CAREFULLY -SAVE A LIFE-

HATFIELD WELL QUALIFIED FOR GOVERNOR

We believe that Lieutenant Governor George Hatfield has the qualifications necessary to make a good governor for the state of California.

In the first place he understands the principles on which all good government is based. He knows and attempts to practice the fundamental principle necessary in every progressive practical democracy, that the Universal Rule is the Golden Rule; that there can be no special privileges for any class or group.

Then again we believe he has the courage of his convictions and will attempt to bring those fundamental principles into operation in a practical way.

His experience as United States District Attorney, as lieutenant governor, and his business training lends itself to being a capable servant of all the people of California in these critical times.

Undoubtedly the Democrats will nominate a promoter and a dreamer who will make no pretensions personally of practicing what he preaches and he will promise most anything in order to get the votes of classes seeking special privileges.

George Hatfield certainly will make a strong opponent for such a candidate and all who believe in equal rights for all can rally to his support.

The fact that he received 85,000 more votes in the final runoff for lieutenant governor than Merriam did for governor certainly is evidence that he has the confidence of the people.

SLEUTH'S JOBS

The next time you hear somebody thundering about the breakdown of law enforcement, or the next time you find yourself suspecting that the art of crook-catching is and always has been practiced with more finish by Scotland Yard than the F.B.I., you might remind yourself of the remarks made the other day by Henry Arthur Leslie, British detective inspector visiting in the United States.

Leslie was asked, in an interview, to make some comparison of the methods and work of the Scotland Yard man and the G-man. His reply was that it would be impossible to find a basis on which any comparison could be made.

He reminded the interviewer that the subject of the English detective's investigation was a "homogeneous population"—Englishmen—while the G-men dealt with every nationality on the face of the earth. He pointed out the vastness of the G-man's field. Great Britain is about the size of New England. He stated that large-scale criminal activities and crimes of violence were comparatively rare in England.

"Burglars and petty thieves," Leslie observed, "are our greatest problem."

Inspector Leslie, incidentally, was not in the United States on a pleasure trip. He came to this country to take a course in crook-catching at the F.B.I.'s "National Police Academy."

BRAIN-WORK ON BRAIN-WORK

The problems of education are getting heavy attacks from every direction on the compass these days.

A novelty in the way of courses that arouses the "Why-didn't-somebody-think-of-that-before" reaction appears on the program of the coming year at Dickinson college. Students will be taught how to think for themselves. The whole object of the course is just that, more elaborately described as guidance "in the formulation of a body of sound working principles."

News also comes of the work of J. L. King, director of schools for the State of Washington, who believes that text-books always are getting out of date and students need to stay ahead of them. He sees to it that as many students as possible do a large part of their studying first-hand, watching the principles they study being put into practical application. King is especially anxious to have the civics students attend sessions of the legislature and various city councils.

It's not surprising that the students get disillusioned, as King says, but it is surprising that they will want to grow up.

COME AGAIN

For the sake of some 370 million Chinese and about a fifth as many Japs, it's devoutly to be hoped that Japan knows what it's talking about when it makes its bid for the 1944 Olympic Games.

The bid is based on the assumption that by 1944 there will be peace in the Far East. This assumption is expressed in the Japanese note. What is not expressed is the assumption that the peace will be a Japanese peace following a Japanese victory. That's something else again.

The assumption, of course, is there, for a warring nation isn't in the habit of setting a period as the outside time it expects merely to survive.

Thus the bid for the games takes on the color of a kind of "public relations counselor's" coup. It may or may not have the intended psychological effect on other nations. That depends to some extent on how familiar the rest of the world has become with the American public relations technique.

The Nation's Press

WHEN PRICES ARE PROBED From the Wall Street Journal

If the temporary national economic committee, popularly known as the "anti-monopoly" committee, actually lives up to frequent statements of its members that it is out to do a scientific research job rather than undertake a witch burning, it is entirely possible that it will do a service no less applauded by business than by the consumers whom it is supposed to benefit. In one respect, particularly, the investigating group has an opportunity to make a real contribution; that is, in its proposed investigation of methods of lowering prices when demand falls off as an alternative to curtailing production.

If the investigation is worth while it will not set out merely to rationalize a preconceived position. Time, in this instance, at least, is not of the essence; on the contrary, the committee may well be the touchstone of legislative activity in connection with monopolistic practices for the full term of the next Congress.

What business would like is not an indictment

MEXICO'S ABILITY TO PAY THEORY

The people of the United States so gradually have come to believe in the theory of paying taxes and wages in proportion to ability to pay that they fail to realize the far-reaching and inevitable and dangerous results of the principle, once it is started, in any human relations.

This is illustrated by President Cardenas of Mexico saying that they will pay for the property they appropriate in proportion to their ability to pay. And why not? If the Federal Government of the United States collects—or, in plain words, grabs—under the guise of taxes from its citizens in proportion to their ability to pay, why is it not fair for other governments to use the same principle in confiscating the property of outside citizens?

In fact, it seems more reasonable for a government to take things from outside citizens in proportion to their ability to contribute than it does for the government to take from its own citizens in proportion to its ability to support the government. And that is exactly what the government is doing in the United States, when it confiscates large amounts of wealth from an individual who makes two blades of grass grow where one grew before. In other words, the Federal Government gives the taxpayer absolutely nothing in return for the wealth the government takes from the taxpayer because he produces wealth.

It certainly seems more reasonable for a government to confiscate from a non-citizen than it does to confiscate from a citizen. But when the practice of the government getting something and giving nothing in return is started, it is relatively only a short time until there are no morals in government, no rights in property for any citizen, and progress is stopped and the whole country sinks into a morass, just as they are doing in Mexico and as we are doing in the United States. Of course, it takes a longer time for a large, rich country, like the United States, to dissipate its savings than it does a poor country, like Mexico. But the results will be just the same if the principle of a government compelling its citizens to pay taxes in proportion to ability to pay is continued. Then it will be only a relatively short time until the government adopts the policy of paying its obligations in proportion to ability to pay. In fact the United States has already adopted that policy, when it repudiated its obligation to pay its bonds in gold dollars as contracted. Mexico is only one degree farther along in the "ability to pay" theory than we are.

THE ILLUSION OF PLENTY

The danger in the thoughtless propaganda of wish-pictures by people who do not practice what they preach is that people will actually come to believe that every citizen in the world could have plenty and if they come to believe this, as they are largely coming to believe it in the United States, then of course they will pass laws and refuse to make the sacrifice necessary to work in order to produce.

And if this is a land of plenty, as the dreamers contend, then by all means we should have minimum wages; then by all means, we should have money handed out freely; then by all means, people should not work so hard; then by all means, no one should abstain and sacrifice. Then we are doing exactly right, under the present regime by limiting production, limiting the hours of work and paying people for being idle. The plan is exactly right and is in harmony with the statement that there is plenty for everyone.

It is no wonder we have the laws passed that we do when we hear from the pulpit and from the schools, from the politicians and the demagogues and the careless preachers that there is, or could be, plenty for everyone.

A few days ago, there was published in this column some figures showing the arable land per population in some other countries. The agronomist, O. W. Wilcox, pointed out that it required 21.2 acres, under the present method of agriculture to support an individual in health. These figures showed that the United States had only 3.3 acres per person; England and Wales had .63; Italy, 1.27; Germany 1.12.

And this estimate that it took 21.2 acres of land to support a man in health did not include any luxuries. So it is evident that it is only an illusion of the wildest kind that there is plenty or that there could be plenty for everyone.

Of its activities in the past nor a simple adjuration to lower prices in the future when industrial activity slackens. What it needs and wants is information concerning ways and means of adjusting its price level, including costs, to lowered demand. If the committee is to meet that need its study must include methods and desirability of adjusting costs, including wages, to a lower level in times of poor business. If the committee refuses to go into this angle, which is really the crux of the matter, it will make no real attack on the problem. Granted that profit margins should be reduced, even slashed, if that is the best way to keep a continuous flow of goods and services moving into the hands of consumers, it does not follow that business should be run at a loss, nor, as long as we have any vestige of privately-owned production, that it will long be so run without attempts being made to lower costs to compensate for the price declines.

We are willing to take the sincerity of the committee on faith until it shows that it is not out to investigate the price structure as a whole, but merely one part of it—the profit margin. Let us hope that the committee will look at all phases of what it justly regards as one of the most important economic questions of today.

BRITISH AND FRENCH UNION From Riverside, Cal. Press

At the end of the royal pageant in Paris and of the more important conferences between French and British statesmen, the British war minister made an astonishing statement.

"It looks," said Leslie Hore-Belisha, "as though the two general staffs are as one. The French tri-color and the British Union Jack seem as one flag."

If such is truly the case it is hardly to the liking of the dictators. Yet they will have themselves chiefly to blame for the new accord between Britain and France. Democracies are learning that they must work together in harmony and understanding and good will if they are to resist the encroachments of the dictatorships by peaceful means.

"One staff and one flag" and two peoples that clearly recognize their mutual cause make for greater strength than one "axis" between two capitals and two leaders and two peoples not wholly trusting each other.

Fellow Citizens:

First. The plan proposed to pay each pensioner $30 per week in warrants. An old couple would receive $3120 per year if pension warrants were worth par value. The average salary in Orange County of a working man is $600 to $800. He usually has to support a family too. Should old folks, whose wants and needs are few, be paid four or five times as much as a younger man earns? Do you think an aged couple would demand that their children donate for their support, five times the salary earned by the children. Well, they should be as considerate of the welfare of other parents' children as their own. The same rule to follow in the matter is the "Golden Rule". But some contend that the old folks should be paid large pensions to "spend to promote prosperity." If spending brings prosperity, the man who earns the money should do the spending. We pensioners spent ourselves into the poor house, and all the pension dollars we will ever receive will come from those who toil, save and invest. There is no magic method to get money out of thin air. If so, why in the name of common sense do not the promoters use it, and quit begging nickels and dimes from the old folks. They have been living upon "pension charity." It should end if they have discovered a method to get money from nowhere.

Second. One of the chief objections to the plan is that the promoters want too much authority. They virtually repeal laws and income taxes. No provisions are made to meet the deficit. They propose to pay all officers, the governor included, and teachers one-half of their salaries in pension warrants. Why invade so much territory in writing a pension law? Teacher salaries would have to be reduced or school terms shortened. It is entirely unnecessary to tamper with the school system in writing a pension law. The whole plan is radical, visionary and fantastic.

Third. The promoters estimate that at least a half million pensioners will receive $30 per week in pension warrants for life, a total of $780,000,000 in warrants per year. The total cost of stamps, to be paid by those who use warrants as money would be $811,200,000 in good United States money. This is about 40 times the present cost of pensions to the California taxpayers. The claims that warrants are "self liquidating" and that the plan will cost no more anything is absurd. In plain English in section 7, it is stated that each one dollar warrant will cost those who use a dollar warrant as money 104 cents each year. We would not call this "self liquidating." The warrants are "printing press money." Purchasing power cannot be increased by issuing printing press warrants. Double the circulation of warrants, and as a result prices are doubled. This very fact was anticipated in section 8. As prices increase more warrants will be issued by the administrator to meet the reducing purchasing power of warrants. The pensioner is to be issued more and more warrants as prices advance and above those of 1937. It is an admission by promoters that prices will advance and buying power of warrants be reduced, the more warrants issued. The time would come when a pensioner would take a basket of groceries. If all other provisions were rock ribbed and "fool proof" this one fault would wreck the whole plan. Fourth. The plan provides a separate distinct pension law for California, which would double the cost of operation and cause endless confusion. If a change must be made the present pension law should be amended by the legislature in my opinion.

Somebody's been foolin us Republicans, on account of that time we all changed over to Democrats they told us we was going to get a absolutely New Deal, and come to find out there ain't a thing that new about it, its old as the hills, why they been having one-man governments for years and years, that's what that war back in 1776 was about, some king was trying to tell us what we must do and we thought all of us ought to have something to say about it, ourselves on account of we was the ones that was paying the taxes to keep the king's family. It just only goes to show how easy it is for a fellow to get something slipped over on him if he ain't kept up on his reading; Ferinstance ever since they sprung that National Labor Relations Board on us I been thinking all the time it was a new idea, just the other day I was reading some somewhere where they had the same identical thing hundreds of years ago over in Spain, and if they had it here today you couldn't tell the difference from one of our N. L. R. B. hearings, it worked just the same on account of they was awful busy too and they didnt have time to take testimony from both sides and so for efficiency's sakes they just listened to one side, and that way they was able to cut out all the arguments on account of not having nobody there to argue with, and that made it easy for the judge to not waste no time coming to a decision. The only difference is they didn't call it the National Labor Relations Board, they just called it the Inquisition and they had some kind of racks down in the cellar so when they wanted to have a hearing they just put the feeler on one of them things and there was something about it that made him speak right up and give the right answers to the Inquisitors without no unnecessary delay, besides having a tendency to make him forget all about losing his property. That's the only thing we ain't got, is the racks, so we just take the property and let em cuss.

P. S.—Them Inquisitors was born too soon, if they could of known about the Wagner Act, they could of really went to town. J.

General Hugh S. JOHNSON SAYS

BETHANY BEACH, Del.—Our Constitutional theory of divided powers was intended for just one purpose—to prevent one-man government or anything resembling it. We went to greater lengths than the world had seen before. Many of the colonists had come here to escape arbitrary powers over the affairs of their daily lives—whether religious or political. It was a long chance they took with unknown dangers in a savage land. They had hardly well established themselves when they felt the force from which they fled following them. In the end they revolted. When that revolt succeeded, they set about by experiment and trial to find some form of government under which it would be impossible for the old evil to appear again.

So they divided the power of the Federal Government up into three counterbalancing authorities—the Congress to make the laws, the courts to judge the laws and the Executive to enforce the laws. This was directly aimed at any kind of dictatorship or personalized government. The attribute of a tyrant is that he makes his own laws, judges them as he sees fit and executes them if and to the extent he wishes. Our constitutional system was specially designed to break that up forever.

Novel and good as that seemed, it was nowhere near enough for the Founding Fathers, they had suffered also from distant carpet-bag government. They determined to prevent that for the future. So they created the two-in-one government of States and Nation. It preserved the old Saxon idea of local self-government—any kind of government the States want if it is republican in form. It required no surrender of power to the Federal Government except that necessary to "make a nation"—external affairs, war, coinage, bankruptcy, patents and control of commerce and affairs among the States. Under such a plan States of the utmost diversity of population and institutions could live in harmony. The seemingly impossible problem of peace in Europe might be solved if there were such a confederation there. Briefly—and as every high school student knows—such has been our system.

Well, we are gradually losing it. Part of this is nobody's fault or design. The complexities of modern industrial life are too great to be regulated by Congress. There must be commissions and bureaus to legislate in detail, like the Department of Agriculture, the Commissions for Federal Trade, Federal Reserve, Interstate Commerce, Communications and dozens of others. They publish regulations. They are laws. They execute those regulations. To a certain extent they judge violations and rights under them. This concentration of legislation, executive and judicial power was exactly what the Constitution was written to prevent. Yet it is growing with astonishing rapidity.

The same thing is happening to the division of powers between the States and the Nation and in part, is equally unavoidable. Control of agriculture, labor relations, industry, banking and internal improvement have been taken from the States to a remarkable degree. Federal control of education and medicine seems to be on its way. The extent of this trend is already si-

YOU AND YOUR Nation's Affairs

EATING CAKE AND KEEPING IT

BY ERNEST MINOR PATTERSON President, American Academy of Political and Social Science

Several weeks ago reference was made in this column to the United States wheat crop for 1938. It was noted that after five years effort at production control our crop this year may be the largest in our history, and that prices are much lower than a year ago. Since then reports of the wheat crop in Europe, where a shortage would have helped strengthen our prices, have been changed to forecasts of a larger yield than had been expected.

Another important American crop is cotton. It too has been subject to controls but in 1937 we produced a record of 15,945,000 bales. Foreign production was 18,413,000 bales, an increase of 65 per cent over the five-year average of 1928-32, just before our control program went into effect.

This year our cotton growers have planted only 26,904,000 acres, a reduction of 22 per cent from 1937 and 45 per cent from the acreage planted in 1925. In fact it is the lowest acreage since 1900. The preliminary estimate for yield is 11,500,000 bales. As the weeks pass this estimate will, of course, be modified as the weather, the boll weevil and other factors require.

Apparently the AAA program is effective in securing a reduction of acreage and of yield. Then what? Compared with 1933 we had last year reduced our contribution to world consumption of cotton from 60 per cent to 42 per cent and our share of consumption outside the United States from 45 per cent to 23 per cent. Apparently both of these percentages will be further reduced this year.

Then what? Within the United States our cotton growers may be no worse off because those who "cooperate" will receive a bonus of 2.4 cents a pound on their normal production. But if this and other provisions of our present law raise the price of cotton from its present level of 9 cents to say 13 cents, what will be the result? If the output in other countries is up to expectations there will be a price "differential" against American cotton. Foreign orders will go to foreign producers. Americans will pay the resulting high price for our product or if they do not the cotton must be warehoused to be sold later presumably at a lower price with consequent losses to the American taxpayer.

The writer of this column does not applaud a public policy when it can be demonstrated that it puts a burden on the "foreigner." But the present problem is a world wide one. It is ordinarily forgotten that sweeping changes are taking place in agriculture and on a world-wide scale. Cotton production is an illustration. First one part of the world and then another is the best for this crop. Within our own country the Southwest is displacing the Southeast as a cotton area. It is possible that in time other parts of the world will be able to produce cotton so much more advantageously than the United States that our position will become unimportant.

But this is a compelling reason why we should not hurry the change. As yet our methods of control are very imperfect. In so far as we may succeed we are by our haste bringing on ourselves a multitude of new difficulties since the plight of thousands of workers in the South is not helped by benefit payments. Moreover a slower rate of change in our position as cotton producers would permit gradual adjustments which are quite impossible under our present policy.

News Behind The News

By PAUL MALLON

World Copyright 1938 by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—Toose who have been leaning over the chairs of the Senate TVA investigators in Knoxville have gained a fairly clear inside idea now as to what may come out of it. They expect a thin coat of whitewash and some thin action.

The whitewash will consist mainly of avoiding any important charges against anyone. This seems to be the probable course as TVA is the President's own personal child and the majority of the senators on the committee do not seem to be anxious to embarrass him.

The action to be recommended will probably include reorganization of the three-man board into a one-man administrator, or turning administration over to the Federal Power commission. The original basic trouble on the TVA board apparently was divided authority. Backstage discussions so far warrant the expectation that a majority of the investigators will favor a single administrator.

Trade association representatives have been dropping in on members of the government's economic planning (anti-monopoly) committee in single file, promising cooperation, friendliness, etc. As a result a good natured lull has come in the committee-business relations. Business men have developed the confidence that their heads are not going to be chopped off, at least not until after election. Committee men have personally pledged themselves to preservation of the American system of free competition, even after election.

No further cocktail conferences have been held in recent weeks behind administration economists and especially selected, monomaniacal economic royalists. But nevertheless, an air of camaraderie has replaced at least 75 per cent of the former humidity of suspicion.

Of course, everyone on both sides still has his fingers crossed, just in case—

Although you hear nothing in the headlines about the investigation, it is being conducted quietly and bloodlessly revolutionarily.

It is probably bootless to oppose so much as is a natural and unavoidable outgrowth of changed conditions. But every single transfer should be carefully examined and permitted only to the extent of its necessity.

Within the Federal Government itself, the tremendous field of government activity is being reorganized. The Department of Agriculture and the Interstate Commerce Commission, might well be split up into legislative, judicial and executive departments to preserve the principle of divided powers, or there might be a separate informal court to judge all administrative law and clearing house with some representative legislation. Certainly the State institutions for local self-government should be interfered with as little as possible.

Just the reverse of this preservation of principle is now the rule. Nearly every recent suggestion of governmental change has been for greater concentration of political power in fewer hands.

gation this does not mean it is not going on.

Treasury department is digging into identical bids. Federal trade is preparing a record of previous investigations into milk, utilities, farm implements, etc. Securities exchange is going into insurance companies, commerce into distribution, justice into oil and multitudinous other anti-trust matters with which it has been concerned, NOT including the American Medical association.

Hearings are due sometime in October but the prevailing impression is that when October comes, it will be found the necessary data cannot be compiled until after the first Tuesday following the first Monday in November—unless, perchance, some good campaign material develops between now and October.

The state department has no ulterior motive in refusing to give out the Mexican note, at first, Mr. Hull had to get translators to translate the transactions of his translators. It was wasted effort. What he needed was a mind reader to ascertain what Mexico was trying to say.

For instance, this is the way the Mexican words went: No law requires us to pay you for your property which we took. . . . You know we have no money to pay. . . . Our Mexican constitution requires us to pay. . . . So there is nothing to arbitrate. . . . Mexico has always favored the principle of arbitration. . . . Arbitration would be unlawful under the Washington treaty because our economic conditions must be considered. . . . So we will appoint one man and you appoint another to decide what we should pay, but can't and won't owe. . . .

Wireless waves crackled between Arlington and the Houston for the entire morning after the note was delivered. Mr. Hull smoked like the great smoky mountains and his fire was smoky. It was he who recommended that the President make a statement expressing the adamant insistence of the government on its position.

Inner councils of the state department seem to have found out at last how to bargain with Mexico. An official officially tells this story:

"When I was down in Mexico, some years ago, a peddler urged me to buy a dozen avocados. He wanted about 60 cents. He came down to 55, then to 50, 45, 40, 35, 30, 25, 20, I came back, told him I would take them for 20 cents and handed him a quarter. He was sorry but he did not have a nickel for change. I told him I did not want them anyway, took my quarter, and walked away again. He came running, exhibiting a nickel which he had just found in his pocket. The deal was consummated with a friendly exchange of the highest mutual consideration."

Paper was made by the ancient Egyptians, the Greeks after Alexander, and later the Romans, by overlaying thin strips of the steam or pitch of the papyrus plant at right angles. Soaking, pressing and drying followed.
